Hi everyone,

Long time no post :)

My copy of The Golden Girls DVD arrived in the UK this morning - much to my surprise as I wasn't expecting it to be shipped until Tuesday :)

The boxset artwork looks much better in the flesh than the flat images we've been seeing floating around online for the past couple of months. I think you will all be very pleasantly surprised. The cover is a lovely shimmery gold and there's an adorable group shot of the girls inside the main sleeve.

I've taken a few snaps of the boxset - you can view them @ <http://www.the-goldengirls.com/DVD/dvd.html>

The past few days have been absolutely wonderful for a longterm GG fan [and webmaster] as there's been so much exciting news to report, especially the girls [minus Estelle] reuniting once again for the DVD Launch Party a couple of nights ago. Didn't they all look great? I swear Bea is looking better [and younger] everytime I see her :)

Take care,

Sam

As always, great hearing from you Sam! Bang up job on the web site and coverage of the DVD... I'm glad that of all people you were the first to get your hands on the DVD!

Normally, because of my horrible spending habits, I would be at the stores opening of the day so I could get my hands on the DVD set that we all have been waiting for over at least 4 years now. But, I'm not going to piss off some certain people and wait till Christmas.

What's another month right, at this point!

Anyone else in my shoes and waiting for Christmas?? I hope I'm not the only sucker :)

Keep up the great work and thanks for the post!

Kev!

I found a new interview with Betty on the subject of "The Golden Girls." It features a couple of interesting quotes about Bea, so I thought that I'd bring it to your attention.

"One time I was making a sandwich and the baloney flew across the room and we all got the giggles. And Bea's (Bea Arthur, who played Dorothy) the worst when she gets the giggles. Sometimes she just has to go home because she can't stop."

"Bea would come in every day with a new joke and no one can tell a joke like Bea. It may not always be the cleanest joke ..."

Bea did, indeed, participate in the tribute to the late Cy Coleman yesterday, as did a number of other well-known performers. According to Theatermania, her performance got botched...

"Bea Arthur was unaware of a sound system glitch that made the first few lines of her rendition of 'It Amazes Me' inaudible."

Here are more photos of Bea at the Cy Coleman tribute. I'm not sure, but there may be some overlap here. It's hard to tell since there's so much black in the pictures.

On a semi-related note: A musical version of "Harold and Maude" is currently playing at the Paper Mill Playhouse in New Jersey. At one time, Bea's buddy and accompanist Billy Goldenberg was reportedly working on a "Harold and Maude" musical. But his name doesn't appear on the credits for this one; I wonder what happened.

Broadway legend Carol Channing turns 84 on the last day of this month. In honor of the occasion, some of her friends (among them Bea) are supposed to "roast and toast" her at a Beverly Hills Hotel gala. The exact date of the celebration isn't 100% clear, as Ms. Channing is scheduled to perform in Hawaii several days prior to her birthday.

Oh, wouldn't you love to get an invite to that party?
