Hello everyone, I am an avid Bea Arthur/Golden Girls fan. When I was a senior in High School (which was about 4 years ago) I had found a picture online of Bea Arthur's head on the Sacred Heart of Jesus painting, I found this hysterical and loved it and had quite the fun time with the picture, but I have lost all copies and the disk with the picture and was wondering if anyone knew where I could find this picture!! Please help me!!

Dear Board,

I have heard rumours to the effect that at one point during the ongoing Betty White vs Bea Arthur feud, that one of the protagonists shat in the other actor's shoe. Can anyone confirm or deny these rumours? I for one, do not believe that Bea would stoop to this level of behaviour. However, Betty White has a notorious reputation in the industry. I've heard that many of the production staff on G.G. were not amused by White's rude remarks and catty behaviour on the set. I wouldn't be surprised if White performed such an act on Bea's shoe.

Any thoughts?

I like Bea Arthur a lot. If I were her age, I would have a crush on her. She is one of my favorite TV people of all time, if not my favorite.

However, I am not interested at all in this current topic at hand.

Good luck with figuring it out.

Hi all ::

First, thanks for the email Trish, it about sums up what I wanted to remind people here!

This group has been going on for over 5 years and even though about every subject has come up at one time or another, it's still ok to bring up previously subject discussions... this is important for newbie fans out there :) However, one thing that was learned from over the past years is that some subjects have no ending and those subjects are the rumor mill ones. We have covered the alleged feud and other rumor based subjects and there will always be someone who will want to disagree, which in turn, will fuels the rumor even longer. So, lets not do that anymore.

I still try not to moderate anything except spam, but I will moderate rumors as well. I'm some are simply curious about something they overheard... but if it's something that you overheard and seems outrageous, then just assume it's not true. If you are in question, please email me first and I can give you the go ahead or not on posting it to the group.

I notice a lot of people unsubscribe from this list whenever rumor start up, so lets keep the discussions to relevant topics such as Bea's shows, the upcoming DVD release and past performances that Bea has done.

Thanks guys!
 Kev!

We haven't done a web chat in ages and I miss chatting with a lot of you! As you can see in the top of the home page for this group, I have added a link to a web chat. It is not only a text chat, but if you have a web cam and/or microphone we can see and hear each other too!

So, my question is, are any of you interested in having a chat sometime? If so, when is a good time for people? We could have one every other week or once a month if you would like.

I'm going to start the first one and that one will be tomorrow, Friday, September 23rd at 8pm

(eastern time). I'll plan to be in the room for about an hour.

Hope to see/hear/text you there!

The man with the scratchy voice – Billy Goldenburg, Bea's piano player – had bad news. Bea very much wanted to come on stage, he said.

But there would be no show. She was ill. She tried earlier in the day to push through, but she was on the verge of fainting, he told the room.

Reality set it. Canceled.

Hope she's feeling better soon :-)

Kevin,

I noticed that Bea's fans are asking you about the status of her upcoming shows. According to "The Times" of Northwest Indiana, Bea has cancelled performances for the next two weeks.

http://www.thetimesonline.com/articles/2005/10/12/news/off_beat/55a2915e83c5ba1f86257097007eb49d.txt

This takes me back to 2001, the year Bea stayed so busy touring the country with her one-woman show. When I saw her in Galveston in November of that year, she went on with the show...even though she was suffering from a bad cold (and her voice was even deeper than usual). This was hardly the only time that she came down with a cold during her tour. So I imagine that her current affliction must be much worse than a cold.
