Happy 2008 to everyone! Hope it will be a great year for all of you!
Welcome, Anni Girl! You can listen here:
<http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=9847148>
the last interview with Bea in 2007, which aired on April 26th where she said, as always, that "performers never retire" but she also said that "they work when they feel like it when something interest them or they don't work, they don't feel like working". So we hope Bea is well and that, if something special will come out and interest her, she wants and can surprise us all again this year!

Last news on Bea Arthur are: on a interview published on USA Today in July 19, 2007 actor Brad Garrett said: "I'm hoping to coax my 85 year old idol, Bea Arthur, out of retirement to play my mom; her health is probably better then mine, She's incredible!"
And this article published on July 28, 2007:
http://blog.peta.org/archives/2007/07/bea_arthur_fig_1.php

Thank you for your help in advance! I remember seeing the video of Bea AND Adrienne on The View, but now I cannot seem to find it anywhere on beatricearthur.com or youtube.com, etc.

Is it still on beatricearthur.com? I found the wonderful radio interviews from the Maude links, but now I can't find the video of THE VIEW interveiw. Thank you for your help!

Also, I love the videos on the site. Bea is perfect in a movie I hope to buy, FOR BETTER FOR WORSE. Jason Alexander as her son is perfect casting! Hysterical scene w/ first clip!

I had The View on the web site, linked from YouTube... however had to take it down because YouTube pulled it due to copyright issues. It's on my to do list to convert it and put it up on the site, but haven't had time... hopefully soon, so keep checking back!

Kev, would you be willing to put up The Beatrice Arthur Special on Youtube?
 (I think I saw clips on your site...I'd love to see more, and I'd buy it, if that were possible.)

No :) I will not be uploading any Bea videos on YouTube... they'll take it down at one point or another... so only on my site in the video section will be the videos that I convert. That being said, a lot of other people put up videos on YouTube... so enjoy theirs while you can!

Thank you!!!! I am going through all of them. I did a double take when I saw The View Clip and wondered how I missed it! I kept going back to the Maude dvd news area ...

I'm getting such a kick out seeing them together! Their entrance: you see Bea hold Adrienne back for a moment...Bea's perfect stage timing! I'm reading Adrienne's book now!

I love the characters in "For Better or Worse" ... Is the Rose character Bea's character's sister? (Jason and the ladies clapping...hahaha)

I applaud all your work on this site! I am having a fabulous time going through everything--- Great to get the chance to see the 70s clippings!

According to the trivia page of the IMDb section on "Murder She Wrote," the popular TV show offers a couple of hidden "tributes" to Bea. Here's what IMDb has to say on the matter:

"Jessica's middle name is Beatrice, a link to Angela Lansbury's best friend (and Mame co-star) Beatrice Arthur. Her late husband was named 'Frank', another reference to Bea, who's birth name was 'Bernice Franke'l'."

I'm not a "Murder She Wrote" expert, so I'm curious if this is true.

According to IMDB, her son Matthew was in an episode of this show. (And in one from Golden Girls; I'll have to watch for it next time it comes around - "The Monkey Show pt. 2")

The clothes she wore on the show were picked by the costume designer, Judy Evans. They were usually custom made for the actresses, or bought at different stores and then customized.

One of my local access channels has been airing episodes of "Undercover TV," distributed by In Defense of Animals. The shows are terribly disturbing (and, at times, hard for an animal-lover to watch), as they feature undercover videos exposing animal cruelty throughout the world. Bea appears in one of the segments on fur farming that I saw recently. She was apparently taped on the "Golden Girls" set while wearing a Dorothy Zbornak outfit.

I admire the "girls" for all supporting animal causes. Rue and Betty both talk about different awareness groups they all did promos for in their autobiographies. FYI - Bea's video for PETA, I believe, is on the beatricearthur.com site.

I always wonder about Bea's lamb recipe joke on her JUST BETWEEN FRIENDS ... Nevertheless, I admire her speaking out to raise awareness to show the awful reality so people will know why it is a good idea to change their lifestyle which is healthy and humane.

 Your site is fabulous!

http://www.amazon.com/Better-Worse-John-Amos/dp/6304080506/ref=sr_1_3?ie=UTF8&s=video&qid=1202241680&sr=1-3

Hello everyone,
 Did anybody receive a good copy from Amazon of FOR BETTER OR WORSE?
 I'm afraid of an old video getting stuck in my new dvd/vcr player. I can't seem to get a straight answer from video companies such as FUJI if old tapes can get stuck in machines (don't eject) or if it is a misalignment of VCR. Each company blames the other product of course. I am a bit leery of buying VHS....
 I rented a copy from the library and it was bent at the top...and had trouble tracking...
 ...but I adore the farce...Bea and all the wonderful actors are endearing--witty scene with Rob Reiner, John Amos, Eda Reiss Merin, Haley Joel Osment (hysterical! "...I can't listen to this crap anymore, I going ...to the playground...((shoot...can't remember exact line)), Jerry Adler, Rip Torn, etc. etc.! The review on TVGUIDE.com was harsh. "God will get them for that!"
 It was fun farce! I think the reviewer is not a fan of such farces... Great schtick with Bea and "Rose" in the apt. scene...All of Bea's scenes- very funny.

That's so funny because I just got it in the mail from Netflix yesterday :) I'm not going to be able to watch it until this weekend probably, mind, and I'm not all that good with reviews (I work with numbers all day).

Hello everyone,
 Did anybody receive a good copy from Amazon of FOR BETTER OR WORSE?
 I'm afraid of an old video getting stuck in my new dvd/vcr player. I can't seem to get a straight answer from video companies such as FUJI if old tapes can get stuck in machines (don't eject) or if it is a misalignment of VCR. Each company blames the other product of course. I am a bit leery of buying VHS....
 I rented a copy from the library and it was bent at the top...and had trouble tracking...
 ...but I adore the farce...Bea and all the wonderful actors are endearing--witty scene with Rob Reiner, John Amos, Eda Reiss Merin, Haley Joel Osment (hysterical! "...I can't listen to this crap anymore, I going ...to the playground... ((shoot...can't remember exact line)), Jerry Adler, Rip Torn, etc. etc.! The review on TVGUIDE.com was harsh. "God will get them for that!"
 It was fun farce! I think the reviewer is not a fan of such farces... Great schtick with Bea and "Rose" in the apt. scene...All of Bea's scenes- very funny.

MAME-- I reread the biography section of beatricearthur.com.
 Interesting that her ex-husband directed Bea in both film and stage.

I have to see it again. Thanks for reminding me! I'll check the library today!

In the 90s I rented her earlier films..too bad I didn't know about FOR BETTER OR WORSE in '95! I love SEINFELD..How did I miss it??
 IMDB.com... I'll have to print out a list for a Bea marathon.

It is awful, but there is hope...and I'm glad that Bea was part of the project so that people who didn't read about it before will see it and know what to boycott and donate to sanctuaries that rescue them so that can live safely. I saw some PBS documentaries about the wonderful place that the lucky monkeys that survived now live. Bea also raised Adrienne Barbea's awareness of fur, she didn't wear it at a award show they attended. Adrienne talks about MAUDE. Great book!

I did watch Mame last night and it was fabulous but I would have rather seen Bea in a bigger role ;) OK, so it was probably the 2nd biggest female role in the film and it was acidic and she was marvelous :)

Did anyone here mention that she was Larry David's mother in Curb Your Enthusiasm? I think it's just in flashbacks/hallucinations, though, because her character dies early on.

 Auntie Mame (1958)

 great backstory!

George Cukor was originally slated as director, only to be replaced with the original Broadway director, Gene Saks, who was then married to co-star Beatrice Arthur.

Hello,
 I hope to get a copy soon! I'm at the library and they have a copy of "Auntie Mame" (1958)only and I realized that I saw this on PBS station a few yrs. ago instead of MAME.
<http://imdb.com/title/tt0051383/>

I enjoy listening to Bea's Broadway cd....so it will be wonderful to see it performed w/ Lucy!

It is great that she could reprise her Broadway role on film...rarely do they allow that; but with her husband directing the film version, justice was done to the film version as well.

But, would you say she was perfect for the role she was cast in or do you wish she had Lucy's role?

Oh good, another Seinfeld fan. I was thrilled to see Bea on 'Curb'- -- too perfect.

= Bea appears when Larry "died" for a few minutes and in heaven they are reunited. I think she yells.... "...Schmuck, who gives away their kidney??"

I fell off the couch laughing!

----Not sure which season Shelley Berman and Larry discuss why he didn't tell Larry that his mother died....funny scene...

-no typo, Adrienne Barbeau's book. It's insightful and wonderful...

Adrienne's, Rue McClanahan's and Betty White's autobiographies are great since Bea won't write one...

From IMDB.com--<http://imdb.com/name/nm0037735/bio>
"And I hate autobiographies, I don't know why."

I mentioned Adrienne Barbeau has a chapter on MAUDE
in case people were only interested in Bea.

I hope that each season gets released the way other Norman Lear shows have been. I don't see any reason why this wouldn't happen. I taped some of the shows off TV Land a few years back, edits and all, but of course there are many episodes I have not seen since the '70s and some I haven't seen at all. Anyway I just wanted to mention "Maude" as it is truly one hell of a funny show.
