I hope that the Different Light picture-taker will tell us more about that evening. I've been dyin' to hear all about it. In particular, I'd like to know if she discussed her early theatrical career. Of course, it'd also be fun to hear about the Golden Girls costume contest!

Warning for those who haven't seen the show yet: This does go into some detail about a couple of her anecdotes.

She is 78. May 13, 1923. She is a year younger than Betty White.

Hey all, we have tickets for an upcoming show of 'And Then There's Bea'. Does anyone know if you are allowed to bring a still camera in or does it vary depending on the venue? If it's forbidden, has anyone had any luck sneaking some photos anyway? Thanks for any input.

Where you going to see her at? I've gone to Chicago, and then the upcoming Indianapolis show, and both of those theaters do not allow cameras...even though at the end, people took pictures of her anyways.

We're going to see her in her only Canadian shows, up here in Winnipeg. Did security check for cameras at the Chicago shows, or did they just assume? I can't imagine there being a whole lot of security needed for a Bea Arthur concert. hehe Not that there's anything wrong with that!

LOL! No, security didn't check...but I think people hid the cameras anyway. I think if the security guards did see one, it would be taken. I wish I had a video of the entire show! I doubt I'd get away with a camcorder in a theater for 80 minutes..

Bea and Billy are scheduled to perform at the Carpenter Center for the Performing Arts in Richmond, Virginia on October 5th.

http://www.carpentercenter.org/welcome.html

They'll also be appearing at Washington, DC's Warner

Theatre that week.

If you'll go to the page below, you'll see that there's a link to a video clip (it looks like it might be the clip shown during Ms. Arthur's appearance on "Today"). So far, I haven't been able to view it. That doesn't mean it's not there -- it may just mean that I need to update my system. So, could y'all see if you're able to get the video to run okay?

Hey,

I actually just went to the site and watched the clip. It is from WARL in Richmond, a local report and interview with a few clips from her on stage. Thanks for posting it.

Matthew asked me to correct him... he meant Raleigh, not Richmond.

Anyway, its about time some city posts some video. It was a wonderful clip. And it was new! Not the one on the today show. I'm trying right now to save it on to disk, versus its current streaming status. Unfortunately its only available in 56k Real format. 300k quicktime would have been much sweeter :)

thanks

Now i'm going to correct myself! the video is in 300k... thought its labled at 56k stream. Unfortunately I am not able to download the complete stream. Sometimes I can wiggle around the code and get it... but sometimes i can't :(Thats why I love quicktime!
 Take care all,

Thanks, guys. Now that I know that the video clip is working, I'll post the link on the Lifetime board, too. (There may actually be other online videos out there -- I just haven't found 'em yet.)
 When I click on the link, I get the obligatory pop-up window -- without the streaming video, of course. When I click on the icon in the video window, it says that there's an "error locating object handler" and tells me "There is no viewer available for the type of object you are trying to open." In addition, it directs me to the Microsoft ActiveX Gallery for a possible download. It looks like I might need to download DirectX. But I haven't tried to do it, as it's something that cannot be uninstalled; and I don't want to use up more disk space for something I don't need.
 Would y'all happen to know anything about this? I'm wondering: If I upgraded to RealPlayer 7.0, would that do the trick?

Actually I get the same message and I have a Windows NT platform and it does not accept Real Player 7.1 only 6.4 which is not comptible with the video. I am going to try from my husband's computer which has Windows 2000. Am dying to see it!

Thats strange... that should work for ya. Perhaps your connection is too slow... or maybe its Real player... not the most reliable program.

Keep trying thats all i can say!

It worked great. I just watched the video. I think I was having problems with a RealPlayer utility that was supposed to download -- but never did.

Now let me offer you another URL.

http://earthlink.yack.com/yack/earthlink/dt/category_id/5055/form_id/on_demand/event_id/300185842.html

This is supposed to be for the infamous "Star Wars Holiday Special." I've never tried to watch it, as it's an hour and a half long -- and I figured that I'd probably never be able to see the whole thing. Perhaps some of y'all will be kind enough to see if it works. If it does, then I'll go ahead and try it.

I ended up uninstalling my old RealPlayer, 'cause I think it may have been messed up. Then I spent about an hour downloading and installing RealPlayer 8 Basic. After that, everything worked beautifully! I didn't have to go to the Microsoft site at all.

Thanks for your help.

Cute little video, huh! Just wish I could archive it on my computer.

Knowing that some people out their have been allowed to record her performance, even for news media purposes, is a good sign that we may someday be able to get a copy. Even if its on degraded VHS... I would do anything for a copy :)

Take care
