In case you're having trouble finding the story, here's the actual link:

 By the way, there may be an error in the story. It indicates that she winds up her tour in Phoenix on Jan. 6. Unless the web site for the Lynchburg Academy of Music just hasn't been updated, she is still scheduled to perform in Lynchburg, Virginia on Jan. 11-13.

If you guys are serious about the t-shirts, I highly recommend using CafePress (www.cafepress.com). I opened my Rue Crew online store with them last month ( <http://www.cafepress.com/theruecrew> ). Last week, I ordered some mugs and mousepad with my site logo (a mug for me, a mug to give to Rue--Haha! and my friend wanted a mousepad for work). I didn't know how they would turn out, because all I did was upload my logo and that's what they used. But the stuff really turned out top-notch. I still can't get over how crystal clear and sharp the graphics are. They're a little on the expensive side, but it's quality. I would order more products from CafePress any day. It doesn't cost anything to set up, you're not obligated to buy anything and it's so easy to use. So if you're serious about doing t-shirt or anything, I'd suggest checking out CafePress. <http://www.ruemccclanahan.net>

Thanks Katie... I actually have been using CafePress for my Limegreen Tangerine stuff... not a bad service, though I was disappointed that they are just iron-ons. But they still do the job easily.

edithbunker500

I have been asked this question many times (Seeing, I'm a big Betty White Fan-- I have a website- <http://rosenylundfan001.tripod.com/welcome.html>) and I have come to a lot of conclusions, that, Bea and Betty DO NOT have bad blood. I have bought recently, a article that has Bea and Betty from Feb. 85' in Lady's Home Journal, and they said that they DO NOT have bad blood and are very good friends. I also have several pictures of Betty and Bea together. Betty often says that she sees Bea at the market. Also, the president of The Betty White OFFICIAL Fan Club says that this is all a hoax, and there isn't bad blood between them... But, I just say "Believe what you want", because several people will disagree, and others will agree-- the only good thing to do is choose what you believe!

We may never know what has actually happened to the relationship between Bea and Betty. Do we really want to know? Do we really need to know? My answer to both questions is "no." It makes no difference to me if they no longer get along. I was going to write a longer version of this, but I realized that I really don't care. It is very obvious that Bea and Betty are or at some point were not on good terms. As we all know Bea has said herself in articles that they were just work partners not best friends as portrayed on the show.As Kevin points out on his site, It is blatantly obvious in the A and U article. Bea does not mention Betty at all in her show, but she mentions the other girls. And also, Bea was not in Betty Whites Lifetime Intimate Portrait. So, Here is what I think. I think that Betty was pissed that Bea quit the show. Betty says her fav show was the GG and Betty is very pro the reunion. I recently watched her Bio on Lifetime and when she talks about Bea quitting you can just sense there is hostility or anger still.I dont think the two of them hate each other, or anything like that. But I do feel there was some sort of ripple in the water.

drewy412, I agree with you. I think the thing basically started with Betty not liking the fact that Bea wanted out of GGs. And Bea felt like it wasn't Betty's business. And Bea had every right to quit. After all, she felt that they really had done it all by then.I really feel that's what happened. But it really shouldn't be our concern. I agree, it doesn't matter one bit to me if there are bad feelings between them. They're human beings just like the rest of us and neither one of them are perfect. I respect Bea and I respect Betty. Enough said!!!!

I think that Betty and Bea must have been pretty good work buddies at one time -- at least in the early days of "The Golden Girls." Here's what Betty had to say in her book "Betty White in Person" (1987):"Bea Arthur is a food maven...discriminating, knowledgeable, and appreciative...and a bit intolerant of someone else's lack in this department. We lunch together every day when we're working, and my unimaginative predictability drives her bananas."

I'd just like to say that both Bea Arthur and Betty White are very professional. If there's a rift between them, they've handled it very well. No dishing, bitching, whining. No tabloid headlines. No publicity. No suing. Whatever else. They're old pros who worked together beautifully in a very funny show and they don't put down each other in real life. That's class. Unlike some stars/sitcoms where the real life situations overshadow the show! ( Excuse me, but I don't care that Delta Burke gained weight on "Designing Women", quit whining about it already!) Know what I mean?Todd

I've come up with a couple of dates of interest that you may want to keep in mind!
 First, the first edition of the LimeLetter will be released on November 25th. So, if you haven't signed up yet, do so now at BeatriceArthur.com
 Second, I'm going to have a organized club chat on December 2nd, at 9pm (eastern). If there is a good turn out, there will be more chats. I would like to chat with you guys... should be a good time!
 By the way, Bea Arthur will be in the chat room as our special guest.
 Of course, I'm kidding, but show up anyway!
 That's all for now... hope to see you online soon!
 Take care,
 Kev!

Just wondered if anyone else happened to see the little blurb that Jon Stewart said about Bea at the beginning of tonight's The Daily Show on Comedy Central. It was funny, Matthew and I stopped what we were doing and looked up in surprise. Out of nowhere, Jon start talking how about Bea Arthur. Something about by adding her name into one of his lines, makes people laugh.
 Anyway, just wondered if anyone else caught that. Always fun seeing and hearing Bea suddenly pop up out of nowhere :)

Oh Kev, what a shame that I missed that! I don't usually watch that show although my brother sometimes does. I'm sorry that we missed that. Wonder if Bea was watching?? After all, she is a fan not only of The Daily Show but all of Comedy Central. And I think it's cute and funny that Bea thinks Jon Stewart is sexy!!! (I don't think he's too bad either!)
 Anyway, I agree with ya Kev....it's always fun to see Bea pop up out of nowhere! Darn it. Oh well. I could probably catch the rerun sometime.

I'm not sure about this, but I think that "The Daily Show" repeats the following evening.
 A number of months ago, when Jon Stewart was Larry King's guest one evening, he mentioned Bea's name repeatedly. So, it certainly looks like the two of them can start their own mutual admiration society.
