Well, I finally got a chance to watch the Rosie segment! (I tried watching it when it was on yesterday, but my roommates were running their mouths--loudly--the whole time, and I couldn't hear anything so I just got up and left, LOL!) Anyway, that was just delightful to see! And the story about a mother's ingenuity was great - Bea's a wonderful storyteller. It's interesting how the whole idea for the show really got started, performing at the AIDS even where she and Billy were the only performers (actually, I recall reading that a while back, I think). When is opening night? Feb. 17th? I'm sure there will be TONS of reviews and articles after that, especially on the 18th after opening night. And hopefully Bea will be doing other guest appearances on television. BTW--Jessica, I just sent you an e-mail at the address listed in your profile, so please check your mail.

Hello fellow Bea Arthur devotees!!Greetings from Oregon.My first time posting here...but have been a fan and member of this club for some time now. Just wanted to add to Kevin's posting concerning those eps of Dave's World. They are terrific!! And Bea is perfectly grumpy, ballsy and just plain great in her guest role as Mel Bloom!!There are actually three episodes that will be airing on PAX TV on the 18th, 19th and 20th:-Dave Barry, Call your Agent-Touched by an Agent-Bad News Barrys. Tape them all if you have the opportunity!!A belated thank you and kudos to Kevin for his time and dedication, and for the outstanding job he has done in creating and maintaining his website together with this club. And also a thank you to all of you who have shared their personal experiences, photos, news links and who keep the rest of us informed of Bea's upcoming appearances. Had the privilege of seeing Bea test her show twice in Westport CT in August of 2000 and really enjoyed it. Based on all that I have read here and elsewhere (thanks to Kevin, Ironicwit and others), a good deal of what she performed then, remains a part of her current show. I'm thrilled at the opportunity to see for myself when I fly to NY to see her show later this month.Again thanks to Kevin for his efforts and to everyone for their enthusiasm and for keeping this club active, interesting and informative!!Best regards....Jen

Thanks Jen for the post. You and everyone else's participation in this club and support has made the time I have spent on the site well worth it. I never dreamt that a year ago when I launched the Bea site that so much would happen. Thanks to Bea starting her one women tour a few months later, it did happen.What bothers me, is that I have a ton of things I still want to do, but just don't have the time. I want to expand the web site considerably. There is a lot of information on there already, but there is so much more that isn't on there. Like, for example, I would love to put together a comprehensive career timeline. Also in-depth details about each thing she has done, broken down into each episode and/or performance. And that is just the beginning.Ultimately, I would love to put together a Intimate Portrait type video of Bea. I have the equipment and resources to do such a thing. But what I don't have is TIME. I have already done an Intimate Portrait of my boyfriend's grandmother who passed away a few years ago. It turned out wonderful! But it also killed me in the time involved.So, I have all of these projects on the back burner. I hope to actually get some of them done eventually. Thanks again for all of your research and participation. It's been a lot of fun and still will be!Take care all,Kev! target=new<http://www.BeatriceArthur.com>

I've discovered another supplier of the CD: the "Village Voice," which has the best price I've seen so far. Unfortunately, they don't appear to have the recording in stock at the moment. The Web site for DRG still isn't listing the CD.

At least I have already been listening to Pirate Jenny and Some People which has been keeping me content.

Anyway enjoy!

I got mine today as well and just finished listening to it. I saw Bea on Broadway on the 31st and had tickets to go again this past Sunday but was sick, but fortunately I am going again on the 23rd of this month and on March 2nd. The CD was superb, but I also recommend seeing her in person - her official opening is this Sunday, 2/17.

It was great again seeing Bea this morning. It was a 'ok' interview. Nothing that can compare to the CBS Sunday Morning Show... but that was more of a production. I loved it when Bea looked right into the camera and said 'because they are all DEAD', when talking about how no one can tell her what to do anymore :) Very Bea!

Hope all of you are getting used to the 'Groups' merger. Definitely different, but has some good possibilites. The only thing that really bothers me is that advertisements. However, I have it so posts are emailed to me directly. Makes this experience much better. If you don't know how to change your settings to do this, let me know and I can do it for you.

Especially when he mentioned her turning 80 next year, and she looked right into the camera and said "don't listen to him." Funny!!!! I sure hope this isn't the last appearance she'll do while she's in NYC. I guess we've been spoiled with Bea the past week or so.

Playbill.com just announced that Bea's show will run through March 24th -- two weeks longer than originally planned. (Maribeth, does this mean that you'll get another ticket in order to make up for this past weekend?)

For those who haven't bought Bea's CD yet, CD Universe has it on sale for under $12 (not counting S/H).

<http://www.cduniverse.com/productinfo.asp?pid=2890353&cart=117418240&style=music>

I noticed that the playlist at the CD Universe site includes "The Times They Are A-Changin'." Did Bea put that number back in the show, or is that a mistake?
