absolutely_f... Send Email

Hello everybody! This is Stephanie Jenson, Promotions Director at The Absolutely Fabulous Publishing Group. Boy, are we excited about The Golden Girls reunion special or what?!?!? I hope everyone had a chance to catch the latest news on Entertainment Tonight. We are sorry that Estelle will not be on the show, but I think I speak for everyone when I say, we all wish her the best and she is in every fan's prayers! On a lighter note, we would like to introduce you to the author of "Picture it...a trivia book" The Trivia Guide to America's Favorite Girls, Jason Dickerson. Jason has been very busy lately promoting the new book. We had a chance today, to sit down and talk with Jason. First, let me thank you for taking the time out of your busy schedule to chat with us today. No problem. It gives me a break for a little while. So, what do you think about all of this attention that the book has received? I still can't believe it. I don't think it has quite sunk in yet. I can imagine the feeling you must have to be thrown into the spotlight, and so quickly. Oh, it's crazy. Every author hopes that a piece of his or her work will make it into the spotlight, as you put it, but when it happens, you are never ready for it. I'm just glad that so many fans have been in support of the book. And don't forget the Lifetime special. How does it feel to be featured on a special about one of the most popular television shows in history? It feels great. I have been a BIG fan of The Golden Girls for many years, and to be part of this reunion special is the greatest gift. Can you tell the fans a little bit more about your involvement with the special? Sure. The book is being featured on a segment dedicated to the ever growing popularity of the show. We were contacted by the show's production team, Andrew Solt Productions, and were asked to be part of the show. It sounds like you couldn't have picked a better time to write this book! That's the funny part. I had no idea. I call it perfect timing. I'm just glad that everything fell into place. Now that you have written this trivia book, what are you planning to do next? Well, right now I am in the process of putting together a book on Designing Women. I just love this show, and there has never been a book about the show, that I know of. Designing Women...What a great show. It sounds like that would make for a great book! I think so. To me, Designing Women has to be the next best thing to The Golden Girls. Jason, I know you have been very busy promoting this book. Before you go, is there anything you would like to say to the fans? Thank you, thank you and thank you. Without all of you, this book would have never been possible. Thank you for your support on this new adventure of mine, and I hope you enjoy the book as much as I enjoyed writing it. Thanks again Jason! You are quite welcome. You can learn more about Jason Dickerson by visiting his web site at: www.JasonDickerson.dot.nu You can also email Jason at: envyme23111@yahoo.com Jason will do his very best to answer each and every letter that he receives!

Here's the "Entertainment Tonight" story on the upcoming Golden Girls reunion. By the way, ET says that the special will be televised on June 2nd; elsewhere, however, I've read that it will premiere on June 30th. So, I don't know which is the correct date.

It sure is nice seeing a little activity on this message board once again. Let's hope that there's plenty more in the weeks to come.

On the periphery of Bea news, the ban on declawing animals in West Hollywood -- of which Bea is a supporter -- has passed.

A lot of you long-time Bea fans may already know about a topless "portrait" of Bea. To tell the truth, it's not really a portrait of Bea, but it's artist John Currin's rendering of the actress as she might have appeared during her "Maude" days. If you're interested in seeing the actual painting, it's being displayed during an exhibition of John Currin's works in Chicago, London, and New York.

Thanks for the intersting post... I have easy access to the museum of contemporary arts and would have completely missed out, if you hadn't posted this! So thank you! I will definitely go there soon and check it out! I have seen the painting on the internet in a few places, but have forgotten about it since then. Should be intersting... yet a tad disturbing. I love Bea, but never imagin her with out her trademark clothes on :)

Thanks for the tip!

Take care,
 Kev!

Kevin,

I almost didn't post anything about the exhibition because, for some reason unknown to me, Bea seems to "invite" such vulgar comments. However, a friend suggested that the folks over here might want to know about it.

Speaking of inviting vulgar comments, I stumbled across an old episode of "The Man Show" recently. Whaddya know? A segment called "Movies Men Don't Want to See" included a fictitious film called "Lick the Wrinkle," starring Bea and Betty White. The film's poster sported a picture of Bea and Betty in the buff.

Kevin,

I loved reading your human interest story. What a great way for y'all to celebrate Bea's birthday! If only all of us could have gotten together that day -- how wonderful that would have been!

I've also made a friend because of Bea. Thanks to the now-defunct Bea Arthur Message Room, we began our correspondence three and a half years ago -- and have continued e-mailing one another ever since. Unlike you and Jessica, we don't live anywhere near each other, so we've never met.

Thats great that you enjoyed our story, and it is great that you have a story of your own! Thanks to the internet we can meet people with the exact same interests. Otherwise, we would be enjoying Bea by ourselves... and that just isn't as fun! Hope you do get to meet your friend someday, and hope that we all get to meet someday as well! That would be very cool! If I ever become rich and famous, your all invited to my house... ugh, I mean mansion :)

Take care,

The Golden Girls have entertained me for years. I have watched each episode 300 times, I think I can quote Dorothy's lines as well as she can. Each of them brought a unique and special presence to the show. Their dedication, commitment will live on for year to come in syndication. Like M*A*S*H the Girls are timeless, ageless and entertain like no other. I loved Bea in Maude and now have her for ever in re-runs.

Just a reminder: If you wanna do some "homework" between now and Friday, Rick McKay has his own Web site; there's also one for the documentary. Good news: It looks like Mr. McKay is gonna be available for a Q&A session after each screening in Seattle -- all the more reason for doing your "homework."

Just received this email from someone...

Billboard <http://www.billboard.com/bb/daily/article_display.jsp?vnu_content_id=1874930> reports: Singer/songwriter/event producer Richard Barone is putting together "There'll Be Another Spring: A Tribute to Miss Peggy Lee" as the flagship show for this year's JVC Jazz Festival. The concert is slated for June 23 at New York's Carnegie Hall. Signed up so far, Barone says, are Deborah Harry, Ronnie Milsap, Jane Monheit, Dee Dee Bridgewater, Shirley Horn, Peter Cincotti, Eartha Kitt, Petula Clark, Bea Arthur, Maria Muldaur, Cy Coleman, Mike Stoller, Freddy Cole, Rita Moreno, and Nancy Sinatra.

Song choices will favor the late Lee's own compositions (with collaborators like Coleman, Duke Ellington, and Johnny Mandel and including such classics as "Manana" and "He's a Tramp") and those written especially for her by the likes of Leiber & Stoller and Paul McCartney. Original arrangements by Gordon Jenkins, Nelson Riddle, and Quincy Jones, among others, will also be featured.

Lee died in January 2002 at the age of 81.

Sounds interesting, let's see what happens!!

Hello Everybody!

It has taken us a little longer to update everyone, as we have been very busy making sure that the book will be out as scheduled!

We do, however, have a bit of bad news.

We received a phone call a few days ago from Andrew Solt Productions' Greg Vines, Producer of The Golden Girls Reunion Special. During the screening of the show at Lifetime's offices, it was discovered that the show had exceeded its 90-minute time allowance. Therefore, certain cuts had to be made, and unfortunately, the trivia book fell into this category. Everyone was pushing for the book to remain on the show, but time just wouldn't allow. This does, however, give us just a little more time to gather a few more dedications for the Fan Page. If you have not sent in your dedication, please do so, as we will be closing out the Fan Page soon! We do promise you that the reunion special is going to blow you away, so make sure you stay tuned to Lifetime Television, on June 2!

We are very excited to announce that The "NEW AND UPDATED" Official Jason Dickerson Web Site is up and running! This is a much different site. The developers behind Jason's site have been working around the clock to update Jason's site, as they felt it needed a little makeover! Sponsored by Yahoo! and Dell Computer, the entire site is all about Jason and the NEW Golden Girls trivia book! Here, you can download Golden Girls goodies, view an interactive book containing just a few of the many dedications that have been received, and tour Jason's personal site! The site will be updated frequently, as the book draws near! This will also be the Official Site to visit to purchase the book! I just surfed the site, and it is so amazing!

Visit The Official Jason Dickerson Web Site at:

www.JasonDickerson.net

Keep in mind; this will be the Official Site to purchase the book!

The book is scheduled to be released around the same time the show is aired, so as soon as it is available, we will most definitely update everyone!

When you visit Jason's site, there are links all ready in place to purchase the book. Since the book has not been officially released yet, the link will take you to a special "hidden movie". Fans who visit this link, will find out the best-kept secret that we have been hiding! Watch the movie carefully and you will be told about our biggest surprise yet!

We would also like to invite you to enter the "Golden Girls Giveaway" Sweepstakes, sponsored by JasonDickerson.net and The Absolutely Fabulous Publishing Group. Three fans will win a Limited Edition copy of "Picture it...a trivia book" The Trivia Guide to America's Favorite Girls, and one lucky Grand Prize winner will win an autographed copy! You can enter and find out more details on The Official Jason Dickerson Web Site, at JasonDickerson.net Hurry and enter today! Sweepstakes ends July 4, 2003!

As far as Jason is concerned, he has been very busy. Since publicity began for the book, Jason has received numerous offers from the media for interviews and television appearances. To mention just a few, Jason will be featured as a cover story in the Richmond Times-Dispatch by well-known television and movie critic, Douglas Durden, and has an article appearing in the August issue of Richmond Magazine! The Richmond Times-Dispatch is the largest newspaper in the state of Virginia, so we are very excited for him! If you are a Richmond local or native, be sure to check it out!

I think that wraps up everything for now. Don't forget to enter the "Golden Girls Giveaway" Sweepstakes, and good luck! Send in your dedications if you haven't already done so, and keep updated on the trivia book by visiting The Official Jason Dickerson Web Site at JasonDickerson.net!

Talk to everyone soon!
