Oh my gosh! Quit it allready!! Enough with this I love/I hate Lucy ridiculous "feud"! Everyone is entitled to its own opinion, and I believe that we should all respect everyone's point of view despite the fact that one doesn't necessarily agree with everyone. But puh-leaz!! This board is not to discuss Lucy, it's to discuss topics on Bea. Who cares who said what, where and when? I'm begging all of you: please don't unsubscribe from this group just because someone else voices an opinion that is not yours, and does so in a way that might offend you. In the end, let's just be civilized and respect each other. ... And also learn when to let go.

Oh please! There's nothing at all wrong with a little disagreement (the personal attack was out of line.) Stating an opinion on one project is NOT bashing Lucy as a person, or lucy's career as a whole. It should be possible to love someone and also see their flaws. (I'd have no qualms admitting that I was less than thrilled with a Bea performance, if that was the case, and I adore her beyond reason!)

I can't add anything more to this discussion, as I haven't gotten the Mame DVD yet, only seen pieces of it on YouTube. It made me cringe, but I'll buy it because I'm sure Bea is wonderful in it, and I want to see her.

First of all I would like to say I am a HUGE Lucy fan.

However there were a lot better choices for the part of Mame. Like a few have said, she can't sing. She may have been good in the original Auntie Mame, that didn't have singing.

For those who think she was great in Mame, I would suggest buying the CD of the show with Angela and Bea and you will see what I mean. I thought Lucy was a great actress, but she wasn't cut out for the singing role.

Now I think Bea was perfect in the role. It's too bad Madelina Kahn didn't get the part of Gooch.

Fred you are such a liar it's not funny! YOU are the one that posted on this board that BEA ARTHUR is NOT a Lucy fan. YOU posted on this board that Bea Arthur HATED the film MAME and HATED that Lucy was cast in it. Well, as I said before check out on YouTube two different events. One, The All Star Salute to Lucille Ball where Bea is clearly moved when Lucy speaks and wipes tears from her eyes and second, The Kennedy Center Honors where Bea Arthur, Valerie Harper and Pam Dawber pay tribute in song to Lucy who was being honored. One of the songs Bea sings to Lucy was MAME! So Freddie you know nothing about Bea Arthur if you spew this and that about how much Bea hates Mame and Lucy which you did and which started this whole mess. My advice to you Freddie is what my grandmother used to say and she would say it to you for sure today if she were alive, "Go shit in your hat and pull it down tight!" And this WILL be the last posting I make on this Yahoo group which seems to be filled with unintelligent dopes like Freddie who know NOTHING about Bea Arthur. I will find some other fan club that doesn't include liars.

I am a Beatrice Arthur fan. I hate General Hospital. But having Bea on that show would make me start watching it again. I just fear that the pace of daytime television would be too fast and grueling (14 hour days) for an 80 year-old woman. And their lower standard of quality (mistakes and garbage that would never make it to the on-air episodes of Maude or The Golden Girls are regularly shifted onto TV for daytime television. Stuff like mispronounced words, line flubs, flat acting, obvious cue-card watching, etc.) would be a bad fit for a living legend like Beatrice Arthur.

But I repeat. I would watch Bea Arthur in ANYTHING. I hope the rumor is true!

Ok, so you guys have been keeping me busy with the moderation here. I have approved 98% of all messages, as they were relevant to a particular discussion. However, sometimes when the message in the discussion is far lost and replaced with vulgarities over and over with no end in sight... well that needs moderation.

So all take a breather, new subject... Mame discussion will be temporarily halted. You guys can email each other on it.

I'm only doing this for the sake of other members staying. Lost a lot of members too during this process, so congrats if that was your mission.

ok... back to the grind (hint hint)

I believe they have it still on the TVLand.com web site... Its about 10 minutes long... though its kind of staged and campy, its very cute... I was really happy with it as a whole. Bea was 100% Bea.

Anyway check out the web site and see if its still there.

Christina, luckily all is still on TV Land.com
<http://www.tvland.com/originals/backtothegrind/video.jhtml>
 Videos with exclusive interviews, extended scenes, sneak peeks and even full episodes of "Back To The Grind". Like Kev said, she was 100% herself; fabulous and funny as always!

Hey!

You can choose the option, on the group webpage, to not receive the emails and just go to the group if you feel like getting news on Bea. You go on "Edit my membership" at the top left (on top of the "andthentheresbea · And Then There's Bea - Just Bea Arthur" in blue), and at "Message Delivery", you choose "Web Only". That way, you'll have to go to the webpage itself if you want to see new posts. ☺

Have a great day!

Sarah: The person in charge of the wardrobe department was Judy Evans. She was also the one who made the costumes for "First Love", a made for TV movie in which Bea shined. Most of the costumes were custom made, which means they're not available anywhere. Bare in mind, though, that the show is from the 80's, so most of the bought costumes aren't even available in stores. .. You might get lucky if you go into thrift shops or stores that recuperate old clothes to make them new. The French term for that type of store would be "friperie", but for some reason, the English term doesn't come to mind. But my guess is that, unfortunately, you'll have to live with whatever they make nowadays...

Jeff: Most of the props used, on any shows, normally get into a warehouse so they can later be reused on other shows. A good example of that is that for almost 50 years, they reused the same cups on many shows on Radio-Canada (a French-Canadian network). They even spoke about it and showed some footage of the different shows on which the cups had been used. .. Are you an artsy person? Because if you are, you could take a ceramic class (which is, in my opinion, fairly easy) and you could make the mugs yourself! That way, you'd get something you made and something that looks like it was in one of your favorite show. Best of both worlds right in your kitchen cupboard!!

Love the idea of making this myself - what a great idea!!!!

Thanks so much for the idea! I have a place near my house that allows you to do pottery.... so I will head over there and see if I can find a coffee cup that matches those from the show and see if I can draw out the design!

Thanks again!

Hi:

Been a fan forever!! Now me and my friends call ourselves "The Golden Girls". Have all the videos to their shows. Plus I watch everyday. I love it! Still can't stop laughing. The girls are great. Think its one of the best shows every made.

Is there anyway I can write to them or email them for a picture or autographed pic? I would appreciate any help from all of you. Thanks.

Golden Girls 4-ever!!!

Oh puh-lease! That information isn't secret! Anyone who has the internet can actually find the addresses for all the girls. The only person you won't receive any responses from will be Estelle, because she's too sick. But you can always send her a card with positive thoughts in it, I'm sure she'd appreciate that. Now, the addresses:

Rue McClanahan,
c/o Chris Reed,
1185 Avenue of the Americas,
New York, NY 10036-2602

Betty White
PO Box 491965
Los Angeles
CA 90049-8965

Bea Arthur
2000 Old Ranch Road,
Los Angeles
CA 90049

Estelle Getty
c/o Paul Chapdelaine
1034 S. Shenandoah St #6
Los Angeles, CA 90035

Enjoy, fellow GG fans!
