Subject: Yahoo club fraud

vectorlime
Send Email

It has come to my attention from members of Yahoo, that there have been many yahoo clubs that have suddenly been created about Bea. Furthermore, Some of these clubs are saying that they are the creator and webmaster of www.beatricearthur.com. In no way are they. I would like to clear the record by listing some of the many new site that have claimed this below

::

http://clubs.yahoo.com/clubs/yagottalovebea
http://clubs.yahoo.com/clubs/queenbea
http://clubs.yahoo.com/clubs/therealgoldengirlbeaarthur
http://clubs.yahoo.com/clubs/asalutetobeaarthur

It saddens me that people will create an excessive amount of clubs on the same subject. There is no use for this. All it will do is spread out valuable discussions on a subject, not reaching everyone who cares. Yahoo users are limited to the clubs that they can join, therefore cannot join them all. It's a form of greed, that I wish to see stopped.

It is everyone's right to create any club that they wish, but It would be nice to see everyone come together and work towards a substantial knowledge base, instead of spreading everything way too thin.

I know that some of the creators of these sites are members of this club. All I am doing is simply suggesting for some good club etiquette in working with each other. I am, by no means, condemning people from creating new Bea clubs. I am only suggesting that we work together to get the most out of this fun and informative service.

Thanks for your time.
Bea says 'Hi' :)

Take care
all,

Kev!

- That must have been one of those sneaked in pictures taken, that were not supposed have happened. I wish I did the same thing when I went to see Bea's performances, but I didn't want to risk the chance of my camera being taken away. I guess I could have snuck in a disposable camera... that way there would have been no loss if it was taken away. I noticed many flashes during the shows that I went to... wish I could see all the sneaked pictures taken :)

Thanks for the link!

Hello everyone. My name's Todd and I am a fellow Bea Arthur lover too. I'm so glad to see so many other people that have affection for this wonderful entertainer.

Kevin, thank you for starting this club and the awesome beatricearthur.com. Your site is incredible. I had such fun dabbling in all of the sections. I have loved Bea for quite a while. I have all of the "Golden Girls" episodes taped and constantly watch them. I'm a junkie. I love "Maude" too. And of course, I have the original "Mame" soundtrack.

I saw "And Then There's Bea" here in Minneapolis. It opened here last April. I came the 3rd night. On opening night Bea fell off the stage into the wings, I heard she was in pain after that for a while. I wanted desperatley to meet her after the show, but alas it was not meant to be. She did not exit out the regular stage door but slipped out another way. I heard later that she was still in pain. How fun to hear everyone else's Bea meetings. I'm extremely envious but also very happy to know that she is nice in person , I guess I just had bad timing that night. I love her show. I was laughing so hard and loud at her jokes and stories that I was disturbing the stuffy lady sitting next to me. When Bea told about one of her first auditions and how nervous she was that she couldn't speak properly "and why couldn't I just say something.....Oh F--- it, Let's sing a song Billy." I roared!!

Yes Bea is a choice character.

Thanks again Kevin for the site for all of us.

Todd

Well, she was suppose to be playing here in Winnipeg, Canada next week. I thought it was odd that Ticketmaster stopped selling tickets a few days ago. This morning, the local newspaper had an ad saying the shows were postponed until January 2002. Upon calling Ticketmaster tonight however,they informed me it was an error and that her 4 shows had been outright cancelled. No word on the reason but I think ticket sales were pretty soft. So much for my 4 front row seats.

Ticket sales may not have anything to do with the cancellation. While surfing the web the other day, I learned that Lily Tomlin cancelled an appearance in Toronto because she didn't want to travel outside the U.S. A couple of weeks ago, I read a newspaper article in which Angela Lansbury indicated that she and her husband would not be going to Ireland in order to scout around for "Murder She Wrote" locations; she felt that now is the time to keep her family together. So, perhaps Bea and Billy would prefer to stay in the U.S., given the circumstances.

I was just going through the tv listings, marking episodes of Maude that I still need to get for my collection, when I discovered that TVLand is not going to be airing Maude after this week.

Maude had a horrible time slot, but thanks to VCRs it didn't hurt me much. But now its over.

Again, I hope that they will put Maude on DVD someday (as well as Golden Girls).

In the meantime, keep your eyes peeled for any stations that might start airing Maude again. Let us know!

I guess I'll just have to watch my 14 tapes of Maude in the meantime :)~

Kevin, I noticed the same thing too! I was just hoping maybe tvnow.com was wrong. I remember TV Land doing this very same thing about a year or so ago. Then they started airing Maude episodes again. Why is TV Land doing this to us?! Since stupid Nick at Nite took off Lucy and now TV Land is airing Lucy, I liked TV Land more than ever. But now they pull this on us! I gotta have my Maude!

Wonder what the fate of Maude will be on TV Land???

I know that you mean. I have 14 tapes of Maude as well but I am missing a few that I have seen, but don't have on tape. I catalogued my whole inventory. Usually TV land puts it back on within 6 months. I have all episodes of the Golden Girls twice, but Maude is my favorite!
