I have just seen Bea's new publicity photos, and I just want to say she is looking great! Doesn't even look 78! I am wondering, since she's going on Broadway, if, she's going to have new publicity photos that she sends out to her fans. I really love her 'older' ones from the Golden Girls Era that she is sending out, but, I would love one of how she looks today...

I agree with you Lauren. It is amazing how young Bea looks! She really looks healthy. And yeah, her famous b&w classic pose (the one she sends her fans) is gorgeous but I'd love to see a more recent publicity photo of her being used too.

Rosie real soon (by the time she actually hits Broadway.) I'd be really surprised otherwise.

Well I'm gonna keep my eyes peeled for anything!!

Hello to all from Florida! Ms. Bea is so wonderful. From watching the Golden Girls this past year, I just had to make a web site. It took me two days just to figure out how to. I just started it Tuesday, and just got online in October. I wrote to Bea, but not looking for nothing since she is so busy with her new show. She seems to have gotten a little shorter, and she also seems to have great health. She is a very pretty lady. If you would like to see the start of my web site I would like yo to.
. target=new><http://www.geocities.com/rue2blanche>. I have a question who would you most likely want to have dinner with. I would have to say all, for it would be hard to choose. Also I give thanks to Ms. Betty White for the two pics she sent me.

I don't know anything about ordering tickets for Broadway shows. However, I just wanted to share a link for Americana Tickets with y'all. Its web site already lists Bea's B'way show, but the quoted ticket prices (which include service and handling fees) are quite a bit higher than the prices I've already seen. But, since tickets may be pretty hard to come by, this might be worth looking into. Besides, they've got a toll-free number.

The ticket prices are interesting since Telecharge is saying that the ticket prices are $50-$65 - I guess it depends on where you order them from. As I mentioned earlier tickets, according to Telecharge, go on sale on Monday, 12/10. When you call the theatre you are automatically placed into Telecharge. Am still debating whether or not I go to the previews or wait until after 2/17 when the show officially opens. From what I am able to determine she will be doing 8 shows a week for 6 weeks!

I will post more info next week when I actually go ahead and try to order tickets.

Lauren,

I agree with you - the new pictures are great - I even printed one down from a color printer and hung it up in my office next to the picture I have of her when I met her. The one that she has been using is probably 15 years old (can tell from the length of her hair - she did not have it longer until the early 90's)and while she looks great it was never one of my favorites.

She does look great - we should only be so lucky.

Here's to Bea!

Maribeth, I did the same thing! I always print every new picture I see of Bea. And on the contrary, I LOVE the old photo! And it looks to me like she's trying to imitate the old one with this new one. One would have to admit they do look awfully similar! Who cares though? Bea looks absolutely wonderful in both photos.

Subject: Bea :: Official fan club

A past post raises an interesting question that one of you may be able to answer. What does it take to create an official fan club? Betty has one... why not Bea? I'm willing to devote time in creating one, but have no idea where to start. Furthermore, would it be worth it? All of your feedback would be appreciated on this!

Not only would this be an online event, but as well as working with other mediums such as print, snail mail, and events held at particular locations.

Thanks!

Ahh, thank you Ironicwit! The web page you directed me to answered all the questions I had.

I think it would have been more realistic to start something like this a year ago. Now that her tour is almost over, it might not be worth the time. And time these days is hard to come by for me.

I'll still keep it in the back of my mind. What do you all think about a Bea club after reading this web page?

In a sense, it looks like I have already established a fan club between this Yahoo! Club and the BeatriceArthur.com site. I think that is better the nothing along these lines, huh!?!

Thanks again,

Kev!

Kevin--

 I think, looking into making an official Bea Arthur club would be an excellent thing! I know a lot of us would be willing to join, and it's such a great idea... I would love it...

 I just want to caution you. If this idea does come through, and you are the fan club president, you have to have a lot of time dedicated... I have an "Official" so to say, spot in the Betty White Fan Club as Pen Pal Editor, and it is really time consuming. There is only about 10 people in the Pen Pal Fourm, and that is so very time consuming...Writing people back, sending information, keeping an orgianized list of people, etc...And this is only my job! There is a little over 100 people in Bets' Pets, and you think all the work Kay Daly has to do...

Good Luck-- I'm supporting you 100%!

Lauren

Kev, I think a fan club is a very exciting idea but I agree with you that it would have been better to have started one early into her touring.
And yes, I always think of this place as a fan club. After all, we are all fans and this is a Yahoo club! I definitely think Bea deserves a fan club and I'm not saying I'm not for it, I just know it would be a LOT of work!

yes... i know everyone is interested... but i have to back down from the idea... i simply don't have the time. Being self-employed i work 24/7 as it is... i just couldn't do it. Bea definitely deserves a official club... but i can't do it. However, I will certainly continue what i have been doing with the site and this club... it's a hobby and it brings me happiness!

I agree with everyone on the fan club too but, I know Kevin and I know his time is very limited. It would have to be taken over by someone who has virtually tons of time on there hands. I think the yahoo site coupled with kevins website is just as good (if not beter) a fan club as any. And once again I would like to commend Kev for all his effrts and hard work that he puts into all of this, just so he can put a smile on our faceS! Thanks
Kev!

PS: Any new news on us all getting together up in NYC?

Thank you Andrew :) It is worth all the time in the world to do something, when one or more people appreciate it. Sometimes, I think that I set myself up disaster... it seems most of the email I get is from people wanting something more from me... rarely a thanks for what is already available. So I thank you in return.

Now for some bad news regarding a group trip to NYC. I have had a lot of positive feedback and many people excited and interested in going. However, which I thought might happen, no one can commit. Therefore, as I said in the beginning, I'm not going to set myself up for disaster. That being said, there still is no reason that one or more of us can still meet up on our own. It just won't be as planned out as I hoped. Every man for themselves! We already know that there are a few people here that are getting their tickets as we speak. So we should be getting some interesting and exciting stories from people. Hopefully pictures too! I'm really looking forward to the next few months between reviews and people's experiences.

Let's see what happens in the next few weeks. If anyone here is definitely planning on going, then get your tickets now. Then let us know when you will be going and others might be able to get their tickets for the same show and meet one another.

As for myself... I will be living vicariously through the people that get to see Bea in NYC! I have had the fortune of spending more time than I have ever dreamt with Bea when she was here in Chicago, so I'm not beating myself up at all that I won't have the additional fortune to see her again in NYC. If I were to point fingers at someone for why I can't go to NYC... it would be the government! I'll explain some other time :)

Finally, Bea Arthur in the Lime Light will be a year old in February. If time permits, I would like to do a overhaul to the site. Nothing huge, but incorporate her tour into the main navigation of the site, as well as other additions. Again your feedback would be highly appreciated!

Well that's all from here... this turned out to be a sub-newsletter, hehehe! Take care everyone and thanks for your support!

Subject: Just Ordered Tickets for Bea on Broadway

Tickets went on sale today through Telecharge and I purchased tickets for two performances. Unfortunately, opening night was sold out - this is usually reserved anyway for friends and family of the performers.

I am going on Sunday 2/10 at 3:00 and Saturday, 3/2 at 8:00. I am taking my husband on the 2/10 date. I got center orchestra - first row first two seats!! I can't wait to go. Would like to go another time, but unfortunately can't afford it - holidays you know.

If anyone else is going on those dates please let me know so we can hook up!

Long live Bea - she is the best!

I want to hear a minute by minute review :) It will be interesting to see how much she changes... especially when compared to her first shows of the tour! It will be interesting to see if anything changes between the two dates that you are going to as well. What wonderful seats you got!!

Have fun and smile for us when you are there!

Take care,

Kevin, I'm with you all the way. And I couldn't agree with you more about this. Going to see Bea in NYC would be fun but I really could not be more satisfied than I am now. I saw her show 3 times and my dream of meeting Bea came true and it was so wonderful. And it was better than any dream!!! (The hug was really the best part!) So why try to outdo all of that? And I would love to see her again but a trip to NYC would just not be practical for me now.

SO, to Maribeth and anyone else going, have loads of fun and be sure and say hi to Bea for us!!

Take care everyone!
